

WHITE SUPREMACY CULTURE BINGO

Right to Comfort	“I’m not racist, but...”	Individualism	“But you’re (not) white!”	Progress is Bigger... MORE!
“You people...”	Objectivity	“Some of my best friends are _[insert identity]_”	I’m the Only One	Defensiveness
Only ONE Right Way	Misgendering/ assumptions about gender	Fear of Open Conflict	Touching (hair, body, clothes) without consent	Either/Or (Binary) Thinking
Perfectionism	Power Hoarding	“But you’re _[insert identity]_”	Paternalism	“That’s so gay!”
Worship of the Written Word	“Where are you [really] from?”	Quantity over Quality	“I don’t see color”	Sense of Urgency (Impatience)

COUNTERING OPPRESSION BINGO

I kept my defensiveness in check.	I challenged my assumptions.	I approached an unfamiliar topic with curiosity.	I recognized my privilege in a context.	I noticed the complexity of ppl's identities.
I approached a situation with humility.	I included all affected parties in decision-making.	When I spoke, I spoke only for myself.	FREE SPACE FOR POC FOR WHITE FOLX: I avoided burdening POC w/basic ???s	I listened more than I spoke.
I was open to learning something new.	I expressed gratitude.	I named and challenged the power dynamic.	I received critical feedback and lived to tell.	I recognized the impact of my actions ≠ intent.
I prioritized the needs of a group over my own.	I recognized how much space I take up.	I resisted touching ppl without consent.	I welcomed discomfort.	I compromised and survived.
I apologized when I used harmful words.	I worked on a team to do something.	I realized not everyone has the same info.	A session/program ran long, and it was okay.	I relinquished power in a situation.
